Welcome

This is Public Energy's one big fundraising event of the year, when all our friends and supporters – artists, businesses, board members and volunteers – give time, money, services and supplies to help us pull off one of the most creative evenings on the Peterborough arts calendar. This year we'd like to give a special shout out to two volunteers who have been with this show every year for four years: the lead board member on the Wearable Art Show, Martha Whatley, who has seen it become more impressive – and productive - every year, and Janet Howse, whose idea this was in the first place (I think) and who continues to push us to ever creative heights.

The chief beneficiary of the Wearable Art Show is Public Energy's programming with local professional artists. These programs - such as our 'Fueled By Public Energy' series of co-productions, Emergency (our annual festival of new work), and this year our special 20th anniversary event, Erring on the Mount – are most in need of the donations brought in by the Wearable Art Show. This city would be a lesser place if not for the artists building careers around living and working in our community – their contributions to our quality of life is easy to take for granted. By supporting the Wearable Art Show you are showing that you recognize the work they do and the value they offer – and I thank you for that. Now stop reading and start bidding up on those silent auction items!
